discouraging.

Except for lack of secrecy, the Austrians organized this supreme effort of theirs better than might have been expected. It was well planned and reso-lutely delivered. The credit due the Italians in all the greater for repulsing it completely in many places, containing it in others and nowhere allowing it to reak through.

The sector on which the enemy gained most ground is on the Piave. There the Austrians made three principal crossings of the river and established three bridgeheads or salients into the original

Having reached the western bank, they pulled pontoon bridges across and pushed re-enforcements rapidly forward the the mountain and the Piave sectors of the Italian front. It stands out, in fact, at the angle where the Piave leaves the mountains and enters the Venetian plain.

Montello is a curious hill. It is an isolated hog's back, 700 feet high in the middle and seven and a half miles long, running east and west, with the foot of its northern and eastern slopes washed by the river, its surface undulating, dotted with farms and little woods — an unusual feafure — crossed from north to south by no fewer than twenty-four roads. The value of Montello to the enemy would be that it tello to the enemy would be that it would dominate from the flank and rear all the Italian positions defending the line of the Piave in the dead flat/plain

Total disability alone will place a youth in Class No. 4. Blindness in one eye will permit qualification for limited service, while twelve teeth will be considered sufficient to qualify a prospective soldier for general military service.

Six of the teeth must be masticating and six incisor, the new rules provide, and filled or crowned teeth and "dummies" will be considered as serviceable natural teeth.

Weight requirements, which have barred many youths from service, are changed. Only youths of height less than five feet three inches will be automatically barred from service. Weight of less than 116 pounds will act as a bar, as will height of more than seventy-eight inches, or overweight as to interfere with normal physical activity.

Muscular tremors of moderate degree and hysterical paralysis may not be considered grounds for disqualification, but insanity and acute alcohollsm warrant unconditional rejection, according to the new regulations. rant unconditional rejection, according to the new regulations

FRENCH CAPTURE 370

Paris, June 18.
The French War Office announcement issued last night said:
Between the Oise and the Aisne we repulsed enemy counter-attacks north of Hautebraye and consolidated our gains of the morning. The prisoners taken in this region number 370. We captured as well twenty-five machine guns and eight trench mortars.

London, June 18.—Only minor raids and the usual artillery activity are mentioned in Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters in France. The statement says the enemy raided a British post east of Rebuterne, and another hostile raiding party atfacked the British lines north of the Somme early this morning, but was regulated.

Connecting Two Cases

Attempt on the part of the Government to show a connection between Jeremiah O'Leary's flight and the spy and treason cases in which he was inthe German press, a neutral organ, the National Zeitung, of Basie, Switzerland, was quoted as asserting that German will have to pay an excessive price charges of conspiracy to obstruct tice by aiding the flight of his brother on the eve of his trial last month on charges of publishing anti-conscription

John J. Hanley, warden of Tombs Prison, testified for the prosecution that William H. Daly, one of John J. O'Leary's lawyers in the present proceeding, had sought and obtained per-mission to talk with Rodiger on three ceasions immediately prior to Jeremiah O'Leary's escape on May 7.

In support of its charge that John O'Leary knew of Jeremiah's intention to run away the Government called Louis F. Goldman, a notary public employed in Jeremiah's office, when he was called to John's office on May 4 to take Jeremiah's acknowledgment of a power of attorney in favor of John. The document was introduced in evidays, and that I should tell inquirers he had gone to Reno, Nev., to try a divorce case," said Mrs. Lyons. "He said he would send his letters in care of my brother." The witness declared Lyons said he was to be accompanied by Jeremiah O'Leary, but made no explanation.

Alexis O'Leary, a brother of the defendant, testified that "the whole family was opposed to Jeremiah's views as ex-pressed in his magazine, Bull, and had no sympathy for many activities in which he engaged." There had been a breach between John and Jeremiah on this account, the witness declared, adding "they became good friends again only when Jerry got into trouble." Many other Irish agitators in the United States will be arrested on charges of treason and espionage as a result of the capture of Jeremiah O'Leary, the Sinn Fein leader, under indictment in New York.

The Government has considerable undisclosed evidence against O'Leary and his companions, it was learned, and arrest of his co-workers has been deferred only pending his apprehension Officials intimated that the Governsome known conspirators if they disclose what they know of past relations becountry and agents working in the in-
